Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

February 6, 2004 LB 227

Judgment Seat; / But there is neither East nor West, Border, nor Breed, nor Birth, / When two strong men stand face to face, tho' they come from the ends of the earth!" And it recounts the theft of a horse by one of the men who lives in the desert. And as he was riding away, the colonel's son--the colonel's horse was taken--the colonel's horse...son was chasing the horse thief, and as he would ride through various areas, he would hear a breech-bolt snick where never a man was seen. And the way that was described, Kamal, the one who had taken the horse, said, there was rock to the left and rock to the right, and low lean thorn between, and you may hear a breech-bolt snick where never a man is seen. So the kid was running after this thief, and the kid's horse fell at a water course--"in a woeful heap fell he," Senator Mossey. "Kamal has turned the red mare back, and pulled the rider free. / He has knocked the pistol out of his hand--small room was there to strive, / 'Twas only by favour of mine," quoth he, 'ye rode so long alive.'" "There was rock to the left and rock to the right, and low lean thorn between." And then he mentioned the part about the breech-bolt snicking where never a man was seen. If I had bowed my head on my breast, as I have kept it high, the kite that whistles above us now were gorged till she could not fly. If I had raised my bridle hand as I have kept it low, the little jackals that flee so fast were feasting all in a row. Then the kid responded. But you'll have to wait for another day for me to give you the rhyming scheme. But what the kid was saying, that this man should do good to bird, which was the kite, and beast, which was the jackal--"Do good to bird and beast, / But count who come for the broken meats before thou makest a feast." So that's what I wanted to get to. Look at the long-term. Count the cost. I can do what I say I'm going to do, because what people think about me doesn't mean anything,...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...as far as changing what I think I ought to do. How people feel will not deter me from the course I need to walk. There's nobody pulling strings on me. But there are strings being pulled on others, because there are bills that big shots and big interests want to get through this Legislature. There are people running for offices of various kinds and
